- 1. A Chinese Communist official named CMU Tai-chieh ( )1 recently arrived in Hong Kong with the object of forenting revolt on Taiwan. He said that he had recently attended a high-level conference discussing Chinese Communist policy regarding Taiwan, and that the Communists were making plans to attack Taiwan as soon as the Korean conflict was settled.
- 2. CHU said that the Chinese Communists were unable to continue fighting in Korea, and it was very possible that they would agree to some sort of arrangements for a cease-fire agreement. He also said that the Malik proposal had resulted from friendly but firm Chinese Communist pressure, and that it did not imply differences existing between the Chinese Communists and the Soviets.
- 3. CMU said that to induce the Chinese Communists to enter the war last December, the Soviets had promised to fully equip 50 divisions and supply 2,000 planes as replacements for the loss of US equipment originally captured from the Nationalist forces. This promise was never kept.

1. Comment. CMU could not remain in Hong Kong very long, because he was too well known to the Nationalists. He returned to the main-land.

25X1C

Comment. The mission was more probably directed towards developing the defection of Taiwan officials.
